

Neil D. Hamilton

Prof. Neil D. Hamilton, is Dwight D. Opperman Prof. of Law and Director, Agricultural Law Center, Drake University in Des Moines. He has directed the Center since 1983. He is past-president of the American Agricultural Law Association (AALA) and author of several books including the Legal Guide to Direct Farm Marketing (1999). He has written over 50 law review articles on topics including: food democracy, new farmers, intellectual property rights and plant genetics, and sustainable land tenure. He is on Iowa Natural Heritage Foundation, the Food Corps, and the Seed Savers Exchange boards and chaired the Iowa Food Policy Council from 2000-2007. He and his wife Khanh own Sunstead Farm and raise produce for local restaurants.